Rachel: Hi!

Ross: Hi

Rachel: Hi.. Ehm... I think there's something that we really need to talk about.

Ross: I think we do. Why don't we go inside?

Ross: Look, I know why you're here.

Rachel: You do?

Ross: Yeah. And to save you from any embarrassment I think maybe I should talk first.

Rachel: Ok.

Ross: Ok?

Ross: Ha... Ross and Rachel. Rachel and Ross. That's been one heck of a seesaw, hasn't it?

Rachel: What?

Ross: I mean, look, that... that one night we had was fun and certainly passionate but don't you think it's better if we just stay friends?

Rachel: Seriously, what?

Ross: Ok, Ok, you know what? If you want to, we can do it one more time.

Rachel: ...

Ross: I mean I'll be OK with that. In fact I've got some time right now!

Rachel: You know what? Can I... Can I talk to you?

Ross: Yeah, sure!

Rachel: I'm pregnant.

Ross: ...?

Rachel: Ross.

Ross: ...

Rachel: Ross.

...

Rachel: Ok. Whenever you're ready. And you're the father by the way, you get it...

(Some time later)

Rachel: Can I get you some water?

Ross: I'm good, I'm good.

Rachel: Ross, there's no pressure on you, okay? I mean you can be as involved as you want.

Ross: Yeah. I've yeah....I've just... I don't know... I don't understand. Ehm... How this happened? We used a condom.

Rachel: I know. I know. But, you know, condoms only work like ninety-seven percent of the time.

Ross: What, what? WHAT?! Well, They should put that on the box!

Rachel: They do!

Ross: No, they don't!

Ross: Well, they should put that in huge, black letters!

Rachel: OK, Ross, come on, let's just forget about the condoms.

Ross: Ok, I may as well have!

Rachel: Listen, you know what, I was really freaked out too when I found out...

Ross: Hey, I'm not freaked out! I'm indignant! As a consumer!

Rachel: You know what, let's talk later.

Ross: No, no, I wanna talk now, ok? In fact, I want talk to the president of the condom company.

Rachel: Ok, You know, maybe I should come back.

Ross: Shh... Yeah, I'll press one!
